

Harriet Bradley leads the agriculture policy work of the nature conservation NGO BirdLife Europe & Central Asia, which she joined in 2017. She is an expert on the EU's Common Agricultural Policy and has contributed to books and other publications on the topic, as well as guest lecturing at the University of Utrecht. Harriet has served as the Vice-Chair of the European Commission's Civil Dialogue Group on Rural Development, and is a Steering Committee member for the Sustainable Food and Farming Platform. She holds an MSc in International Public Policy with Distinction from University College London.